I am in the process of developing a response, on behalf of the Peace Corps, to Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security’s request for information in the attached memo. In order to best answer this request, I will need answers to the following questions.

On page two of the memo: Request #2 states:

Thank you for your assistance.
December 19, 2014

The Honorable Carrie Hessler-Radelet
Director
Peace Corps
1111 20th Street, NW
Washington, DC 20526

Dear Director Hessler-Radelet:

I am writing to inform you of a modification in the implementation of the REAL ID Act of 2005, Pub. L. 109-13 that will affect your operations.

The REAL ID law prohibits federal agencies from accepting for official purposes, state-issued driver’s licenses and identification cards unless the issuing state meets certain security standards for the issuance and production of those documents. This law reflects one of the recommendations of the 9/11 Commission. The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has been assigned to provide guidance and leadership for federal agencies’ implementation of this law.

As of December 1, 2014, nine states and territories are noncompliant and currently subject to the Act’s prohibition. Of the remaining jurisdictions, 20 are compliant and 24 have demonstrated sufficient progress to receive an extension that allows federal agencies to continue to accept their documents for official purposes through October 10, 2015, subject to renewal. Enforcement has begun incrementally through an interagency plan developed under the auspices of the National Security Council. The first two phases of enforcement at federal facilities have already begun, applying the Act’s prohibition to nuclear power plants and to restricted areas of federal facilities accessible to federal employees, contractors, and their guests.

1 Official purposes are defined in statute and regulation as accessing federal facilities, entering nuclear power plants, and boarding federally-regulated commercial aircraft.
2 Arizona, Louisiana, Maine, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New York, Oklahoma, Washington, and American Samoa are non-compliant with the REAL ID regulations and do not have extensions. As this list is subject to periodic revisions, the most recent version can be found at http://www.dhs.gov/real-id-enforcement-brief.
On January 19, 2015, the agencies will begin Phase 3, expanding enforcement to federal facilities accessible by the general public that are subject to identification-based access controls, including the White House Complex.³ (See Enclosure A.)

Federal agencies will implement Phase 3 on a modified basis, as proposed by the General Services Administration and requested by the Executive Office of the President. Enforcement at smaller and less complex federal facilities will begin on January 19, 2015, and enforcement at the largest and most complex federal facilities will begin on October 10, 2015. The start date for each facility is based on its Facility Security Level classification,⁴ with facilities having a Facility Security Level of 1 or 2 beginning on January 19, 2015 (Phase 3A), and facilities having a Facility Security Level of 3, 4, or 5 (including the White House Complex and the Pentagon), as well as military facilities, beginning on October 10, 2015 (Phase 3B).

Federal agencies may mitigate the impact of REAL ID enforcement on their visitors by using alternate access control measures, such as authorizing a list of other acceptable identity documents or setting procedures to facilitate access when a visitor has no acceptable form of identification. To promote consistency among agencies, DHS has compiled a list of best practices used in Phases 1 and 2. (See Enclosure B.)

In order to facilitate the gathering and analysis of metrics, DHS requests that each agency provide:

1. The name, title, email, and phone number of an individual to serve as your agency’s primary point of contact;
2. A list of your agency’s facilities, including location (location code, city, state) and Facility Security Level; and
3. Monthly reports on encounters with visitors presenting driver’s licenses or identification cards from states subject to enforcement.⁵ Reports should be sent no later than the 10th day of each month. (See Enclosure C for the reporting template.)

³ The first two phases were implemented on schedule in April and July 2014, respectively. The phasing applied to restricted areas of federal facilities, primarily to an agency’s headquarters.
⁴ The Facility Security Level is a broadly-used risk management standard and involves a calculated measure of tenant population, square footage of the facility, mission criticality, threats to tenant agencies, and symbolism of the facility. Facility Security Level determinations range from 1 (lowest) to 5 (highest).
⁵ As of November 26, 2014, Arizona, Louisiana, Maine, Minnesota, New York, Oklahoma, Washington, and American Samoa are not compliant with the REAL ID regulations and do not have extensions. New Hampshire’s extension expired on October 10, 2014, meaning that federal agencies will be prohibited from accepting for official purposes driver’s licenses and identification cards issued by that state beginning January 19, 2015. As the list is subject to periodic revisions, the most recent version can always be found at http://www.dhs.gov/real-id-enforcement-brief.
The DHS Office of Policy will serve as the aggregator of this data. Please send your agency information to [redacted]

I appreciate your cooperation in executing the interagency plan for REAL ID enforcement. The General Services Administration will be providing supplemental guidance to Facility Security Committees at facilities which it owns or operates. Otherwise, please direct any questions to the DHS Office of Policy at (202) 447-3871 or [redacted]

Sincerely,

[redacted]

REAL ID ENFORCEMENT IN BRIEF

The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) announced on December 20, 2013 a phased enforcement plan for the REAL ID Act (the Act), as passed by Congress, that will implement the Act in a measured, fair, and responsible way.

Secure driver's licenses and identification documents are a vital component of our national security framework. The REAL ID Act, passed by Congress in 2005, enacted the 9/11 Commission's recommendation that the Federal Government "set standards for the issuance of sources of identification, such as driver's licenses." The Act established minimum security standards for license issuance and production and prohibits federal agencies from accepting for certain purposes driver's licenses and identification cards from states not meeting the Act's minimum standards. The purposes covered by the Act are: accessing federal facilities, entering nuclear power plants, and, no sooner than 2016, boarding federally regulated commercial aircraft.

States and other jurisdictions have made significant progress in enhancing the security of their licenses over the last number of years. As a result, approximately 70-80% of all U.S. drivers hold licenses from jurisdictions: (1) determined to meet the Act's standards; or (2) that have received extensions. Individuals holding driver's licenses or identification cards from these jurisdictions may continue to use them as before. (See Section B of the sidebar).

Individuals holding licenses from noncompliant jurisdictions will need to follow alternative access control procedures for purposes covered by the Act. (See Section A of the sidebar). As described (See Section A of the sidebar), approximately 70-80% of all U.S. drivers hold licenses from jurisdictions: (1) determined to meet the Act's standards; or (2) that have received extensions. Individuals holding driver's licenses or identification cards from these jurisdictions may continue to use them as before. (See Section B of the sidebar).

REAL ID Implementation Best Practices

The REAL ID Act of 2005 ("the Act") prohibits federal agencies from accepting for official purposes—including accessing federal facilities—driver's licenses and identification cards from states and territories not meeting the Act's minimum standards. This prohibition is being implemented incrementally throughout 2014 and 2015. However, the Act does not prescribe how federal agencies should implement the statutory prohibition. Federal agencies have requested guidance from the Department of

v. University, library, or school card containing a photograph, name, and expiration date.

I have a question about the Real ID Act.

How will this law affect CDL and TWIX card holders that have to enter federal facilities?

Regards

Sender: (b)(6)
Recipient: (b)(6)
Thanks. We met years ago to discuss implementation of REAL ID.

The short answer is No.

The REAL ID Act and regulation simply state that Federal agencies may not accept a driver’s license or identification card issued by a non-compliant state that has not been granted an extension. That’s all. What the Federal agency facility may accept for identification in place of the state-issued document under these circumstances is entirely up to the Federal facility itself.

Moreover, the REAL ID Phased Enforcement Plan further qualifies the circumstances under which the prohibition of the REAL ID Act applies. See http://www.dhs.gov/real-id-enforcement-brief. The following limitations apply:

- Access for activities directly relating to safety and health or life preserving services, to law enforcement, and to constitutionally protected activities, including legal and investigative proceedings will not be affected. Existing agency policies will still apply.
- The Act does not require individuals to present identification where it is not currently required to access a Federal facility. Nor does it prohibit an agency from accepting other forms of identity documents other than documents from non-compliant states.
- The Act’s prohibitions do not affect other uses of driver’s licenses or identification cards – including licenses and cards from noncompliant states – unrelated to official purposes as defined in the Act. For example, the Act does not apply to voting, registering to vote, or for applying for or receiving Federal benefits.

Beginning on January 19, 2015 Federal enforcement will begin for some semi-restricted facilities, subject to the limitations above. We recommend that you contact the facility you plan to visit to determine if and how the facility will implement the REAL ID Phased Enforcement Plan.

Thank you for your inquiry.
Looking for clarification on the next enforcement deadline for REAL ID. January 15, 2015.

For the non-compliant states listed below, Arizona, Louisiana, Maine and Oklahoma, will citizens from these states be required to show a passport when seeking entrance to a federal building such as a federal agency, federal courthouse, etc.

Semi-restricted areas (i.e., areas available to the general public but subject to ID-based access control) for most Federal facilities (subject to limitations described in the next section). Access to Federal facilities will continue to be allowed for purposes of applying for or receiving Federal benefits.

Enforcement of STAR ID set to begin no sooner than 2016

10:46 a.m. CST December 29, 2014

Alabama residents still have at least a year to obtain a new form of identification needed for all domestic flights without using a passport.

Robyn Bryan, spokesperson for the Alabama Law Enforcement Agency, said there is still time for people to get a STAR ID to travel on commercial aircraft or access federal facilities before it is required by law. STAR ID, which stands for Secure, Trusted and Reliable Identification, is the state's way of complying with the REAL ID Act of 2005, a federal law passed in an effort to thwart possible terrorist activity. As of 2014, all but 15 states and territories are in compliance with the act.

Prior to December 2013, there were deadlines set in December for people born after Dec. 1, 1964 to obtain a STAR ID and Dec. 1, 2017 for people born before Dec. 1, 1964.

"This time last year, Homeland Security extended the enforcement period," Bryan said. "It will not start until 2016."

Bryan said all current Alabama driver licenses and identification cards would be accepted no sooner than 2016, when the Department of Homeland Security will implement its enforcement phase. Those who have a valid U.S. passport may use it in place of the required REAL ID-compliant identification.

In order to receive a STAR ID, an individual must present various forms of identification to their local Department of Motor Vehicles office in order to verify their identity and date of birth, such as a birth certificate or a valid, unexpired U.S. passport. Individuals must also verify one's Social Security number, presenting a copy of their Social Security card or W-2 tax form. In addition, one must present a document to prove their place of residence, such as a utility bill or a voter registration card.

"If they want to get a STAR ID, they should go the next time they need to renew their driver's license," Bryan said. "That's important for people to understand, that they don't have to pay for a duplicate right now, as long as they have a renewal coming up in the next year or so."

In 2011, the program was launched at the Driver License examining offices in Montgomery, Autauga and Chilton counties, where only 286 people opted to get a STAR ID. As of Dec. 21, a total of 46,701 people statewide have obtained a STAR ID.

There are currently over 3.8 million licensed drivers in Alabama.
Oregon is not compliant but does have an extension that allows Federal agencies to continue to accept driver’s licenses and identification cards issued by the state.

Hello,

One follow up question because I called the Governor’s office and they seem unaware of where to direct me even for basic information. This is a general question not applicable to any particular communication with a state but may be helpful — as a general matter who submits the extension package(s) to DHS from the states? Does it typically come from the Governor’s office, State DMV agencies, etc.?

This might assist me with determining where I should address my question(s) to. Thank you!

Best regards,
I understand that. But they told me that it was a federal regulation that they could not use the Social Security pay stub.

To whom it may concern,

I recently applied to renew my D/L in South Dakota. Among the many things, all of which I had when I took the bus to get my license renewed, were this particular group.

MUST HAVE ONE document to prove Social Security number. The documents below are the only ones we can accept for proof of Social Security number (the document must include name and full social security number). Please do not ask us to accept anything other than the documents below:

- • • * Social Security card (we cannot accept the Social Security stub) (card/stub examples)
- • • * W-2 Form
- • • * SSA 1099 Form
- • • * Non-SSA 1099 Form
Pay stub (must include name and social security number)
I had all the other required documents, such as passport, two bills to my current address, a check to pay, since they said in the information on line that they would not accept credit cards. For the pay stub, I brought along my form SSA-4926-SM from 2013. I had also used my Passport as a form of identification, for which I had to bring my social security card to get the passport. I believe that their not accepting my social security pay stub as identification, was and is harassment. I would hope that you will change that part of the requirements.

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am doing some research regarding the status of RealID implementation in California. Would you be able to provide basic information pertaining to California’s status? What is the date that our extension expires? Has a packet been submitted to renew the extension? Is there any indication as to when California will commit to whether or not it will being fully implementing RealID?

DHS requires visitors to present government-issued identification for access to its facilities. For visitors presenting a state-issued driver’s license or identification card, DHS may only accept such documents if they are issued by states that are REAL ID compliant. If the state that issued your license is listed as noncompliant, please bring an alternate form of government-issued photo ID — such as a passport or Federal employee, military, or veteran identification card to facilitate access.

Do I have to change my license to a Real ID prior to December 1, 2014 or can I hold off if I live in the state of Florida? My license expires in February 2017.

Please advise Asap.

I am getting ready to book some travel and do not have a REAL ID. Is this required for me to fly after 12/31/14?
REAL ID prohibits Federal agencies from accepting driver’s licenses from noncompliant states for entering Federal facilities and other official purposes.

Assuming the casino is not a Federal facility, REAL ID would not apply.

The REAL ID Act of 2005 applies to state-issued drivers licenses and identification cards. Tribal IDs are out of its scope.

We have not announced the schedule for phase 4 beyond that it will not occur before 2016. Please see the TSA website for a list of what documents that are acceptable at checkpoints aside from a passport.

We continue to be in communication with Oklahoma and will provide an extension if and when the state demonstrates that it has or plans to meet any remaining minimum security standards. For security reasons, we only release our findings to the state government and not to third parties.

I hope that this information proves helpful.

Dear Sir/Madam,

I have Oklahoma clients concerned about being able to board airplanes when the REAL ID act goes into effect for boarding federally regulated aircrafts. I understand this will occur no sooner than 2016, but are there any assurances that my clients will be able to fly commercially beyond that? Many of my clients do not have passports and it is unlikely they will get one before 2016. Aslo, is there an updated schedule for phase 4 implementation? Has there been any coordination with the state of Oklahoma to ensure citizens with Oklahoma IDs will not be prohibited from flying? What exactly is the state not in compliance with?

Also, how does this law deal with tribes and tribal members? Will tribal IDs be accepted? Do tribal members now have to get a state ID or passport?

Thank you for your time.

I have already provided the required information. Why do I have to do this over again when all I am doing is changing my address? I provided the info in North Ft. Myers at the DMV office there.
Generally, there are exemptions for court houses (which is what you cited below from our webpage).

I would recommend that you contact the specific facilities in question as the authoritative source for their access control policies.

To whom it may concern,

I recently applied to renew my D/L in South Dakota. Among the many things, all of which I had when I took the bus to get my license renewed, were this particular group.

MUST HAVE ONE document to prove Social Security number. The documents below are the only ones we can accept for proof of Social Security number (the document must include name and full social security number). Please do not ask us to accept anything other than the documents below:

- • * Social Security card (we cannot accept the Social Security stub) (card/stub examples)
- • * W-2 Form
- • * SSA 1099 Form
- • * Non-SSA 1099 Form
• * *  Pay stub (must include name and social security number)

I had all the other required documents, such as passport, two bills to my current address, a check to pay, since they said in the information on line that they would not accept credit cards. For the pay stub, I brought along my form SSA-4926-SM from 2013. I had also used my Passport as a form of identification, for which I had to bring my social security card to get the passport. I believe that their not accepting my social security pay stub as identification, was and is harassment. I would hope that you will change that part of the requirements.

I have not noticed any notifications at any points of entry, so I was wondering if the provisions of the act will be implemented at federal courthouses?

On the web site, http://www.dhs.gov/real-id-enforcement-brief, I noticed the following statement:

Access for activities directly relating to safety and health or life preserving services, to law enforcement, and to constitutionally protected activities, including legal and investigative proceedings will not be affected. Existing agency policies will still apply.

So, will I need to bring my passport with me, beginning 1/19/15, to get into the courthouses and other areas where the Justice Department conducts business?

The REAL ID Act does not create a requirement to show a REAL ID compliant driver’s license.

Agencies determine whether they require an ID for minors seeking to access a Federal facility. Generally, most agencies already have policies in place to accommodate minors since children under 16 years old do not have a driver’s license today.

TSA does not require IDs for passengers aged 17 or younger. http://www.tsa.gov/traveler-information/acceptable-ids

I will be traveling from Alabama to NYC the first week of December. I have tried three times to obtain a STAR ID from the State of Alabama, but the wait is 8 hours or more. I was finally able to secure an appointment with the State of Alabama, but that appointment is for the week after I return from my NYC trip. I have reviewed your website and cannot find a reference to a strict Dec 1 2014 air travel requirement so I am hoping that you have extended that deadline.

You should make that decision based on whether you want to continue to use your driver’s license of Federal official purposes, which include accessing Federal facilities, entering nuclear power plants, and (no sooner than 2016) boarding Federally-regulated commercial aircraft.

Agencies retain their own discretion on what other forms of ID they will accept for these purposes in lieu of a driver’s license.

Would you be so kind as to provide the DHS definition of a federal facility? I just want to ensure we are on the same page. When we hear "federal facility" we automatically think "military installation". If our definitions are different then this may be a non issue. If your definition includes military facilities then I believe there is a lack of communication since each visitor center I have spoken with has no knowledge of this policy change. Thank you.

I cannot seem to find out how to get a REAL ID in Virginia. This page says that Virginia is compliant, but that it is still being granted extensions: http://www.dhs.gov/real-id-enforcement-brief. I would rather get one in my own state than have to drag 20 years of documentation to the state where I'm going to be visiting. I have to get a REAL ID in Nebraska if I'm driving there more than 30 days.

Sincerely,
Ted,

Thanks,

DHS requires visitors to present government-issued identification for access to its facilities. For visitors presenting a state-issued driver’s license or identification card, DHS may only accept such documents if they are issued by states that are REAL ID compliant. If the state that issued your license is listed as noncompliant, please bring an alternate form of government-issued photo ID – such as a passport or Federal employee, military, or veteran identification card to facilitate access.

DHS,
The following are the total volume of encounters with driver’s licenses from states subject to enforcement to the Real ID Act for Headquarters, Department of Commerce from October 1 – 31, 2014:

- Arizona – 2
- Maine – 2
- New York – 18
- Oklahoma – 1
- Washington State – 1

I apologize, I was on the Florida site when I clicked the link so I assumed that you were specific to FL. My license was issued by the state of FL.

In order to answer your question I will need to know what state you are licensed in.

Hello. I have reviewed the Real ID website but have been unable to determine when I need to obtain a Real ID license. I have seen statements indicating that I should have the Real ID license by December 2014. However, I have also seen statements indicating that I can renew my license only within 18 months of expiration. My current license does not expire until 2017.

So – which is correct? Do I need to get the Real ID license this year? Or do I need to wait until within 18 months of my current license’s expiration?

Thanks in advance.
Renewal procedures differ from state-to-state.

We recommend that you address your questions to your state Department of Motor Vehicles.

My driver license expires in 2019. If I renew my driver license online now, will it be Real ID compliant? Or, do I have to go to the Driver License office in person to become Real ID compliant?

Thank you,
REAL ID only applies to state issued driver’s licenses and identification cards. Military retiree cards are outside its scope, and each agency sets its own policy on whether to accept any documents that are outside REAL ID’s scope.

Montana currently has an extension through October 10, 2015. Generally speaking, you may use a Montana driver’s license to access facilities subject to any requirements of the individual facility.

Hi,

I was on the GSA auction site and I see that the Real ID law applies to access federal places where auction items might be inspected or picked up after purchase. I know Montana driver’s licenses do not meet the requirement as a Real ID.

My question is this: Is my military retired ID considered a Real ID for the purpose of accessing federal installations. If it is, maybe you could add that information to your web site.

Thanks, hope your day goes well.

Would you be so kind as to provide the DHS definition of a federal facility? I just want to ensure we are on the same page. When we hear "federal facility" we automatically think "military installation". If our definitions are different then this may be a non issue. If your definition includes military facilities then I believe there is a lack of communication since each visitor center I have spoken with has no knowledge of this policy change. Thank you.

You must contact DOD for an authoritative list, as each agency has the discretion to establish which identification documents they will accept in lieu of a driver’s license.

Please provide a list of identification alternatives to the Arizona Driver’s License for entering a federal facility. We have several employees who travel to military installations for government customer meetings and not all have passports.
